The family owns 6 hectares spread across the region in villages like Chouilly, Cramant, Cuis, Bergères-les-Vertus, Fossy and of course Bouzy. There are only about 50,000 bottles a year that are produced by Paul Clouet and all the wines are all made in the same facility as the Bonnaire wines are in Cramant. They don't suffer from these shared accommodations, they have an identity all their own. The Champagnes are ample and robust in the way wines from Bouzy are, yet they also feature a finesse and polished structure that makes them distinctly their own.
